Hello Gary,

My name is Lynn VanWieringen and I am currently the project coordinator for a Western Region SARE grant that was funded. The title of the grant is 'Feed Management Education for the Agricultural Professional'. It is a joint effort between faculty from Washington State University, Oregon State University, and University of Idaho. The overall goal of the Education project is to provide 'Feed Management Education in Nutrition and Nutrient Management for Livestock and Poultry Professionals'.

We are in the process of designing workshops for ag professionals. Our thought is to have a '101 course' and a '201 course'. The '101 course' would target staff from NRCS, Conservation Districts, Nutrient Management consultants, and regulatory officials. The '201 course' would target nutritionist.

We would like to present something at the upcoming conference titled 'Agriculture and Water Quality in the Pacific Northwest'. Would a 1/2 day workshop fit into the format of the conference, or could be attached to the end of the conference? Or would we need to try to do a 20 minute presentation that would just highlight the workshops we are trying to put together?

I will attach a copy of the brochure that we have been handing out to highlight the grant.

Thank you,

Lynn VanWieringen
